In Our Town

by Ravi Anin

This is our town. A lot of people work in our town. Let's find out how things get done.

It is even before dawn. This driver goes up and down the streets. Now they will be clean when people leave their houses.

A crowd waits. Here is the bus bound for downtown. The driver smiles and asks, "How are you today?"

In winter, snow may pile up on the ground. Out comes the plow. The mounds get bigger. This mound is the biggest!

Dark clouds fill the sky. A mail carrier still makes her rounds. She brings mail from way up north and way down south.

Clang, clang, clang! Here come the firefighters.

“Turn on the spout!” one of them shouts. Wow! The fire is out.

We count on the people in our town. We are proud of them. They make our town a good place to live.
